

Memorandum

To: WSC Inventory Composite Group
From: WSO Management
Date: February 3, 1994
Subject: WSO Staff Perspective on 1994-95 Inventory Plan

The WSO management team spent several hours reviewing and discussing the revised proposal for the 1994-95 inventory project. We then compared the timeline and the projected staff resource needs of the proposal with our own management needs for the first six months of 1994. It quickly became clear to us that any significant commitment to the schedule by staff would be nearly impossible while considering the immediate management needs of the WSO. Coming off three years of not being able to add nor replace key staff positions, we had been planning since late 1992 to bring 1994 staff levels up to where we were in 1989. (The income from our two new major products make it possible now.) Our plan began to be implemented during the last quarter of 1993 and we expect to move at full speed in the first half of 1994.

As with any plan you have to prepare the best you can for the unexpected. Ours the last half of this year was an inordinately high number of staff absences for sick and maternity leaves and other personal tragedies. During the first half of 1994 it will be the loss of two primary managers, nearly one-third of the management team. These losses would be difficult at best under normal circumstances but in the middle of adding and training new staff it becomes a crisis. Our immediate management tasks now read like this for the first half of 1994:

- Search, hire, and train two new team leaders
- Search, hire, and train one new coordinator
- Training for new WSO-Europe Manager
- Training for new coordinator Conference Services Team
- Hire and train new staff for Shipping and Receiving Team
- Shift two staff members to new teams
- Develop, approve, and implement a new personnel policy
- Develop, approve, and implement a new staff evaluation procedure
- Develop, approve, and implement training plan for existing staff
- Coordinate w/consultant to assist staff and team adjustments
- Management training

Each responsibility noted above will take a considerable amount of management time and effort to succeed. Every team will require a substantial adjustment period to assimilate the new staff, most significantly the management team.

There are other concerns as well about the attention we need to give some of our most basic WSO service responsibilities: the production and distribution of NA literature; the development of our regular publications; administering the FIPT; translation work and group services. None of these have received the type of attention they are warranted during the past year or in some cases over the last several years. Instead, they get attention only when necessary or when a crisis develops. Unfortunately, crisis management has become the norm over the last several years but it is not a practice we want to continue to endure. When you add the amount of staff time already dedicated to continue basic services for the rest of the conference year and to support the annual meeting of the WSC, our task is staggering. (See attached schedule.)

The timeline outlined in the inventory plan places us in an unfortunate and unenviable position. Quite simply, we cannot accommodate the WSO self-assessment timeline while addressing our management needs. Every solution we discussed about how we could do both made the management situation more problematic. What makes our situation so difficult is that we support the inventory project and believe the results will offer positive changes to the way we do business. We just cannot afford to neglect our management needs during the time our self-assessment is scheduled. The same can be said about what may be presented as WSC basic services for 1994-95.

It is our recommendation that the WSO self-assessment needs to be delayed. This would help to give us the necessary time to establish an effective management foundation for the office. Our bottom line is we need your help, cooperation, and understanding.
